When I see the worst
Of my fellow man
When I see the worst
And It's inside of me
When I despair
Of them, of us
And see the flood waters rise
See the fires rushing nearer
Feel the judgement coming
When I fall face down before you
Shivering in my foolishness
Feeling every shred
Of my sinful humanity
When I cry out,
"How can you love a failure like me?"
When I whimper,
"How can you redeem an offender like me?"
When I whisper,
"How can you save a wretched sinner like me?"

Through Your Word
You reply,
"Because my son
Died willingly
In your place
Because my justice
Was reconciled
Because my power
Brought him back from the dead
To bring you back from the dead
To bring you home to me."
You smile.
At me,
While
Delight
In me
Radiates in your presence
Humbly I accept
Love
Redemption
Salvation
Beyond my comprehension.
